What is the Medicare Diabetes Prevention Program?

The Medicare Diabetes Prevention Program is a 12-month service. It's covered to those who qualify under Medicare Part B. It's available once in a member's lifetime. There are two parts to the program:

- Sixteen intensive sessions over 6 months
- Six monthly sessions of maintenance

The first sixteen sessions

A certified life coach will guide you through small group meetings. These meetings focus on changing your diet, increasing physical activity and learning ways to control your weight.

Six-month maintenance period

When you complete the first series, your program moves into the maintenance period. You'll meet once a month for follow-up support sessions. Your coach will evaluate your progress, working to meet and maintain your five percent weight loss.

Additional maintenance

When you meet and maintain a five percent weight-loss, you've reached the primary goal of the program.

As long as you meet the attendance requirement, you'll qualify for an additional year of maintenance services.
