

Reminder: Clinical review is again required for acute care admissions with non-COVID-19-related diagnoses starting June 13

Effective June 13, 2020, acute care admissions for non-COVID-19-related diagnoses require clinical review following the standard processes used prior to the pandemic. This means you'll need to submit clinical documentation along with your authorization requests.

The waiving of clinical documentation was a temporary change we made during the COVID-19 pandemic. This temporary change has now ended. You can view the latest list of COVID-19 changes in our Temporary changes due to the COVID-19 pandemic document. This document is available on our COVID-19 web pages within Provider Secured Services and on our public website at bcbsm.com/coronavirus.