

Temporary relaxation of HIPAA compliance requirements for telehealth visits has been extended until further notice

We are extending our alignment with the federal government's relaxed HIPAA compliance requirements for telehealth visits. While this was most recently listed as running through the end of May, we're changing it to "until further notice." We're doing this to make it easier for providers to conduct health care visits remotely during the COVID-19 crisis.

We've updated the following documents to reflect this change:

- Telehealth for medical providers — See the "Telehealth technology and patient confidentiality" section for detailed information.
- Telehealth for behavior health providers — See the "Telehealth technology and patient confidentiality" section for detailed information

You can find our telehealth guides in the telehealth sections of our coronavirus webpages, which are available through Provider Secured Services and on our public website at bcbsm.com/coronavirus (click For Providers).
